

Colourful autumn garden with LECHUZA

As the days get shorter and the cold approaches, colourful leaves and flowers in the garden create a lovely autumn mood. A selection of seasonal plants in modern LECHUZA planters can brighten up this time of the year with a splash of colour. Ranging from warm orange to bright magenta and rich red - the colours glow in the warm autumn sunshine.

Erica – or heathers – are classic autumn plants and particularly suitable for autumn planting. Just when other plants are preparing themselves for winter, the heathers show their colourful display. They harmonise beautifully with the snowberry. The unusually-shaped berries range from snow-white, mother-of-pearl to bright shades of red and orange. Very hardy, the snowberry is able to survive in shade, which makes them perfect for autumn planting. Make a real statement in the garden this autumn with LECHUZA planters. Made from weather-resistant plastic, they can be left outdoors all year round.

Following nature's example, the sub-irrigation system is a reliable way of supplying plants with water and nutrients. The water level indicator clearly displays when the water needs topping up. This is a real advantage in autumn when strong fluctuations in temperature and rain are often the norm. For outdoor use, the drain plug can be removed to allow excess rainwater to run off, preventing the planter from becoming waterlogged.

The current LECHUZA product range has a wide selection of planters varying in size, shape and colour. The planters set to impress with their clean, contemporary design coupled with a sophisticated sub-irrigation system.
